

Sigurd F. Olson, President of the National Parks Association.

"I wonder in our mad rush to dam every river, chop down every tree, utilize all resources to the ultimate limit, if we might not destroy the very things that have made life in Americas worth cherishing and defending."